

Staying Safe Action Plan

Staying Safe was launched for consultation in July 2007 and, during that period, parents, children and young people, members of the public and practitioners were consulted about their concerns in relation to children's safety.

The Staying Safe Action Plan, launched on 5 February, sets out the work which the Government will take forward over the next three years to drive improvements in children and young people's safety, which will be measured by the new Public Service Agreement to improve children and young people's safety.
