Welcoming 300 delegates from across the UK, including school leaders, teachers, and learning outside the classroom (LOtC) practitioners and providers, the CLOtC National Conference is a leading event for educational professionals, inspiring innovation, sharing best practice, and shaping the future of learning beyond the classroom.

This year, the conference will take place on Thursday 12th November at RHS Garden Wisley in Surrey and will feature inspiring keynote speakers who will engage and motivate the audience; practical and informative workshops led by experts and covering the breadth of learning outside the classroom; discussion and networking opportunities; and an exhibition zone.

Sponsorship and support is critical to the success and delivery of this event, and allows some teachers and other school staff to attend the conference for free.

“ We're delighted to host our 2026 annual conference at RHS Garden Wisley, a LOtC Quality Badge holder. This remarkable setting showcases the rich opportunities available to enrich and extend learning beyond the classroom and support students to thrive and achieve. Our conference is unique in bringing together teachers, LOtC providers and decision makers to learn from one another and strengthen practice across the sector.

This event is only made possible thanks to the generosity of sponsors and supporters, who enable us to offer over 100 free places for teachers. ”

Dr Anne Hunt, CEO of CLOtC

About CLOtC

At the Council for Learning Outside the Classroom, we believe every child should have the chance to experience the wide range of health and learning benefits that learning beyond the classroom offers.

The evidence is clear that learning outside the classroom (LOtC) helps children reach their potential. It engages children and young people with their learning and improves their personal, social and emotional development, including their confidence and resilience.

We are the only organisation that champions all forms of LOtC, across all ages, in all contexts and in all settings.

LOtC can happen anywhere, near or far, inside or out, for example in school grounds, local community spaces, museums, cathedrals, science centres, farms, and overseas tours.

Learning Outside the Classroom has taught us that curriculum is not just what is planned on paper, but what is lived day to day. When learning is rooted in place, experience, and relationship, it becomes something children carry with them – into the playground, into conversations, and into how they understand the world.
